EXPLANATORY NOTE

The bill seeks to create the Fifth District in the Province of Nueva Ecija by reapportioning the two (2) cities and six (6) municipalities comprising the Second Legislative District of the province.

Under the 1987 Constitution, specifically Article VI, Section 5(3), it provides that "Each legislative district shall comprise, as far as practicable, contiguous, compact, and adjacent territory. Each city with a population of at least two hundred fifty thousand, or each province, shall have at least one representative. (Italics ours)"

Congress is mandated by the Constitution to make a reapportionment of legislative districts within three (3) years following the return of every national census. This is to ensure that in case of an increase in population of a city or province, the increase of inhabitants are duly represented in Congress, at the ratio of a representative for every 250,000 inhabitants.

Presently, pursuant to the Ordinance appended to our 1987 Constitution, the apportionment of legislative districts in the province of Nueva Ecija, as provided by law, is as follows:

"NUEVA ECIJA with Four (4) Districts -- First District : Municipalities of Aliaga, Cuyapo, Guimba, Licab, Nampicuan, Quezon, Santo Domingo, Talavera and Zaragoza; Second District : Cities of San Jose and Muñoz, municipalities of Carranglan, Llanera, Lupao, Pantabangan, Rizal and Talugtug; Third District : Cities of Cabanatuan and Palayan, municipalities of Bongabon, Gabaldon, General Mamerto Natividad, Laur and Santa Rosa; Fourth District - City of Gapan, municipalities of Cabiao, General Tinio, Jaen, Peñaranda, San Antonio, San Isidro and San Leonardo."

Since 2010, the population of the Province of Nueva Ecija had greatly increased to 1,080,440 persons as of August 1, 2015 as per 1.95% annual population growth rate of Nueva Ecija conducted by the National Statistics Office, necessitating a reapportionment of its legislative districts in order to give proper and adequate representation in the House Of Representatives to all inhabitants of Nueva Ecija.

The reapportionment of legislative districts proposed in this Bill adheres to the standards prescribed in Section 5, paragraph (3), of Article VI of the Constitution, i.e. as far as practicable in contiguous, compact and adjacent territory.

It may be true that the population in the proposed new Fifth Legislative District of Nueva Ecija may not reach 250,000 inhabitants. However, the Supreme Court in the case of "Aquino vs. COMELEC" (G.R. No. 189793 - April 7, 2010), has ruled that a population of 250,000 is not an indispensable requirement for the formulation of an additional legislative district in a province, whose population growth has increased beyond the 1986 numbers.

Under the same Supreme Court ruling, it provides that the number of inhabitants in the resulting additional district should not be considered. It further clarified that population is not the only factor but is just one of several other factors in the composition of the additional district.

Thus, to meet the increasing socio-economic demands of its people by means of representation, the need to reapportion is imperative. The magnitude task and troubles that beset the people in the area further show the compelling reasons to reapportion in the soonest time.

Accordingly, approval of this proposed measure, is strongly recommended.
