EXPLANATORY NOTE

Having a component city is a catalyst for change and development in a province. Its character complements each other and carries economic gains in adjacent municipalities. Having at least one component city in a province is instrumental in boosting socio-economic development in the area. It promotes commerce, improved delivery of services, tourism and alternative sources of income to the communities.

This bill seeks to create a component city in provinces that does not have an existing component city. Based on the Philippine Statistics Authority, there are thirty-two (32) provinces without a component city that will benefit from this legislation. Of the qualified provinces, sixteen (16) are in Luzon, six (6) in Visayas, and ten (10) in Mindanao.

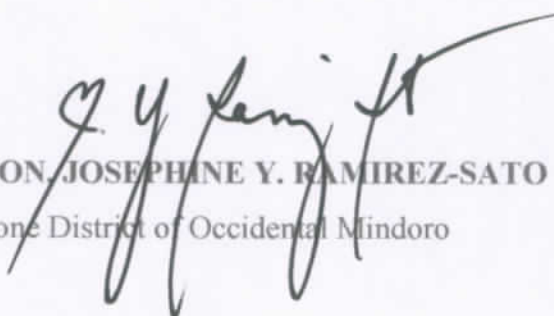

To function and become a city is more of a character rather than just financial, population or land requirement. Even a small municipality can qualify as a city when it can perform and has the character and functions of a city. It can even excel further if the qualified municipality is the center of commerce to neighboring towns, provides services and maintains supply of goods.

The bill also aims to boost development by helping a qualified municipality in province to become a component city. It is a supportive and proactive bill seeking to attract more investments to support the municipalities reach their financial targets rather than wait for a municipality to develop on its own, slowly reaching the required financial quota.

Our government needs to support this bill because it does not only promote inclusive growth, it can also be an investment target by private companies and financial institutions knowing that the municipality is qualified and up for conversion. Their planned investment or expansion will surely hit the mark knowing the area will be developed to a city.

Urban development today cannot just be classified simply on number of population, land area and income. A growing and functional city is defined by its purpose and development role to its constituents and nearby municipalities in the aspects including business, tourism, transportation, food security, peace and order, disaster response, and social services. The people and their commitment to service is also integral to city development. The proper legislation and support is much needed to attain these objectives.

In view of the foregoing, the approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
