House Bill No. 3610

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Globally, there is a growing recognition of the fundamental importance of human capital as the primary force that drives national development. Studies show that the quality of a country's human capital is directly proportional to the quality of its education.

Consequently, far-reaching reforms in our education system must be undertaken in order to ensure the development of our human capital.

In the rankings of the educational institutions of the world, our top universities always lag behind our ASEAN counterparts. We, therefore, need to engage with the top educational institutions of the world in order to benefit from their experience and expertise and hopefully raise the standards of our education.

Majority of the world's top institutions start their academic calendar in August or September. And among the members of the ASEAN, only the Philippines follows the June-to-March academic calendar. Our engagement with the world's top universities will be greatly facilitated with the alignment of our academic calendar with the rest of the world.

Hence, this bill proposes the start of the school year on the second Monday of August to the second Monday of September, a mere one month difference as opposed to the current allowable period of almost three months, from the first Monday of June but not later than the last day of August, as provided for under Republic Act No. 7977.

The synchronization of the academic calendar will assist in the conduct of research between local and international universities as well as student participation in exchange programs designed eventually to benefit local education.

A synchronized local academic calendar aligned with the rest of the world also has the following benefits: first, it avoids confusion among the various stakeholders (the schools, the students, parents, partner communities, and other institutions and entities engaged in education related services; second, it avoids the dire economic consequences among sectors or industries which benefit from common break schedule of students as well among families engaged in agriculture who need as many helping hands as possible; and finally, it eases the burden of parents in having to deal with multiple school calendars, which are likely to disrupt precious work and family time and activities.

We are on the right course when we recognize the fundamental role education plays in our national development. However, bold initiatives must be undertaken in our education system if we are to compete and thrive with the rest of the world.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED.
