House Bill No. 7306

Introduced by Rep. ANGELO MARCOS BARBA

AN ACT MANDATING ALL GOVERNMENT-OWNED BROADCASTING STATIONS TO SERVE AS LEARNING DELIVERY MODALITY, PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS THEREOF, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Distance learning, also known as correspondence learning, is not something new in the Philippines or the world. Distance learning refers to a learning delivery modality where learning takes place between the teacher and the learners who are geographically remote from each other during instruction.\(^1\) This method of learning targeted non-traditional learners such as full-time employees or those who could not physically attend a classroom lecture.\(^2\)

Due to the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic, distance learning has become a mode of learning delivery not only for non-traditional learners but also for traditional learners. In ensuring continuous learning among our students, adapting to these changes brought about by the pandemic is necessary.

The current state of the country’s digital infrastructure has become a challenge to distance learning, but this learning modality has different types. One of which is broadcast-based learning. Broadcast-based learning is a type of distance learning which uses broadcast media—television and radio—as learning delivery modalities. Television or radio-based instructions are usually utilized by students who do not have access to computers and/or are in remote areas with no internet connectivity.

Distance learning, particularly broadcast-based learning, as a mode of learning, should therefore not be limited during the pandemic. It must continuously be made available as an alternative. After all, the use of radio and television broadcast as distance learning solutions is a powerful way to bridge the digital divide in the education sector and reach the most marginalized learners.³

Thus, this measure proposes to institutionalize broadcast-based learning for primary and secondary education in the Philippines in order to provide free, public, and accessible learning delivery modality for all learners. This mandates all government-owned broadcasting stations to provide free airtime for all broadcast-based learning programs developed by the Department of Education.

To ensure program sustainability, the bill also seeks collaboration between and among all concerned government agencies, government-owned broadcasting stations, and primary and secondary educational institutions.

In light of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is most earnestly sought.
