EXPLANATORY NOTE

Having a shelter is a basic necessity of every individual. The 1987 Constitution mandates the State to undertake a continuing program of urban land reform and housing to make affordable and decent housing and basic services available to the underprivileged and homeless citizens in urban centers and resettlement areas. It is for this reason that the Republic Act 7279, or the Urban Development and Housing Act of 1992, was enacted to ensure that Filipinos, especially the underprivileged and the homeless, gain access to affordable housing. However, there are still millions of Filipinos who are in need of decent housing today. According to Habitat for Humanity, there are around four million families who are living in “unsafe, unsanitary, and unsustainable conditions” in the Philippines.¹

The 2001-2011 Housing Demand and Supply Profile prepared by the Board of Investments (BOI) shows that the country is producing housing units at a deficit. The demand for socialized, economic, and low-cost housing is high compared to what was being produced in the market, registering a 3,919,566 housing backlog as of 2011.²

Housing needs will only increase year after year as the population increases. It is projected that from 2012-2030, the additional housing need will reach 6,226,940. To meet the demand from this timeframe alone, around 345,941 housing units must be produced annually starting 2012.³ The total number of housing backlog since 2011 must be addressed by the government to ensure that all Filipino families will live in safe and sustainable houses as soon as possible.

This bill aims to address the growing housing needs of the country by providing continuous funding support in the implementation of the National Housing Development and Production Financing Program. This bill also seeks to improve the access of Filipino families to a variety of housing options through the provision of support mechanisms and subsidy programs.

In view of the foregoing, the approval of this bill is earnestly sought.

National Housing Development Production and Financing Program. The implementation of this program shall be carried out by the following agencies:

National Housing Authority (NHA) - the sole national government agency tasked to implement and develop the following housing programs intended for the bottom 30% of the income population:

1. Resettlement - this program addresses the requirements of families affected by a) government infrastructure projects, b) those living along danger areas, and c) those affected by Supreme Court Mandamus. It entails the provision of vertical (from 5 to 15-storey residential building) and/or horizontal housing units, community facilities, socio-economic, and other community support programs.

The program also involves the implementation of local/regional resettlement projects as joint National Government-Local Government undertakings to address the resettlement requirements of Local Government Units (LGUs) outside Metro Manila involving families in danger areas, those affected by infrastructure projects, indigenous peoples, and former rebels.

The government infrastructure agencies shall submit an inventory of Informal Settler Families to be affected by their projects and their location to the appropriate housing agencies at least two years prior to its implementation and shall incorporate in their respective project costs the amount needed for the relocation and resettlement of affected families.

2. Government Employees Housing Program - this program is intended to provide decent and affordable housing to low-salaried government employees.
3. Settlements Upgrading - this program aims to address the security of tenure and infrastructure requirements of informal settlements on government-owned lands or designated socialized housing sites.

Housing Program for Calamity Victims - this program is intended to respond to the housing needs of low and marginal-income and/or informal shelter families for transitional and/or permanent shelter affected by calamities such as typhoons, landslides, earthquakes, and fires for relocation to safe areas.

5. Land Banking - this refers to the acquisition of land, which includes idle government lands, at values based on existing use in advance of actual need to promote planned development and socialized housing programs with a view to distribute the land to qualified social housing beneficiaries.

It covers survey and titling of individual lots for disposition to qualified occupants, infrastructure development, housing construction, and rehabilitation of existing project sites.

The primary objective of the program is to assist residents of blighted or depressed areas to own the lots they occupy, or where they choose to relocate to, and eventually improve their neighborhood and homes to the extent of their affordability. The different modalities of the CMP are as follows:

b. Housing for Peace Process and National Building CMP - a CMP modality which would lead to the achievement of national peace and development through the provision of housing to former rebels/rebel returnees (FR/RR). This also includes rebuilding damaged or destroyed homes in post-conflict areas of internally-displaced persons (IDPs).

c. Post-Disaster Rehabilitation and Reconstruction CMP - a CMP modality which provides assistance to community housing projects in times of disaster. This program allows the communities to immediately embark on house construction and site development which adhere to the minimum standards and specification of the design and structural components of disaster-resilient housing projects, as well as materials.

d. Industrial Workers CMP - a CMP modality intended primarily for low-income employees of companies engaged in agro-industrial, industrial processing zone, tourist, recreational, commercial, and other enterprises.

e. Site Upgrading/Development CMP - a CMP modality intended to provide site development and housing/building construction loans for projects whose lands are donated by private or public entities applicable to both on-site or resettlement projects.

f. Mixed-Use CMP - a CMP modality aimed at developing a self-sustaining community by having a balanced mix of residential and commercial spaces, well developed infrastructure and recreational amenities along with green and open spaces and wellness areas. Under this modality, 9% of the project area shall be allotted for green spaces and 1% of the project area for friendly facilities for Persons with Disabilities (PWD).
National Home Mortgage Finance Corporation (NHMFC) - a government corporation mandated to increase the availability of affordable housing loans to finance the Filipino homebuyers on their acquisition of housing units through the development and operation of a secondary market for home mortgages.

7. Securitization - this refers to the development of the secondary market for home mortgages and other housing-related receivables, conveyances, and financial instruments and the development/promotion of and investments in new housing-related financial instruments and investment vehicles and the capital markets thereof.
