AN ACT PROVIDING FOR A SYSTEM OF POSTAL VOTING BY SENIOR CITIZENS AND APPROPRIATING FUNDS THEREFOR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

In January 2020, the World Health Organization declared the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) outbreak as a public health emergency of international concern.1 To arrest the widespread transmission of the virus, the country has been placed in varying levels of community quarantine, thereby restricting travel and mass gathering.

Per the US Center for Disease Control (CDC), the risk for severe illness from COVID-19 increases with age, with seniors at higher risk.2 In fact, based on DOH data, as of August 30, out of 3,520 COVID-related deaths in the Philippines, 2,106 cases are aged 60 and above. In view of the precarious situation of senior citizens, they are advised to limit interactions with other people as much as possible.

In August 2020, Mr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, Director General of the World Health Organization expressed hope that they will be able “to finish this pandemic in less than two years.”3 With no vaccine or cure in the sight, it is reasonable to imagine that the pandemic will affect the processes relating to the Constitutionally mandated elections on 09 May 2022.

The public health situation in the country has underscored the need for electoral reform. There is an urgent need to institute measures such that the most vulnerable sectors of our society will be protected from the virus while ensuring that their right to suffrage remains unimpeded by the present circumstances.

Hence, when the need arises, senior citizens must be allowed to vote by mail. This bill authorizes the Commission on Elections to allow postal voting for senior citizens and set rules for the conduct thereof if and only if the Commission deems it necessary.

Evidence from around the world speaks to the effectiveness of this reform. Countries such as the United States, United Kingdom, Switzerland and Australia legally allowed postal voting long before the COVID-19 pandemic began. The President of the United States himself reportedly votes by mail.⁴ Furthermore, South Korea successfully conducted parliamentary elections in April 2020 amidst the pandemic with its health authorities concluding that no local transmission occurred from that event.⁵ The East Asian country not only allowed to vote by mail individuals with limited mobility but also COVID-19 patients and citizens in self-isolation.⁶ This is believed to have contributed in the 66.2 percent voter turnout – the highest for a South Korean parliamentary election in almost three decades.⁷

Voting by mail will be much needed even in the post-pandemic era. It will lessen the queues in election precincts and will keep frail individuals from lining up for hours just to cast their votes. With or without a disease outbreak, members of vulnerable sectors must be allowed to vote at the comfort of their homes to ensure their health and safety, while allowing them to exercise their rights.

Legally, the country has put a premium on the right of all Filipinos to vote in all circumstances. Art. V of the 1987 Constitution states that "SECTION 1. Suffrage may be exercised by all citizens of the Philippines not otherwise disqualified by law, who are at least eighteen years of age, and who shall have resided in the Philippines for at least one year and in the place wherein they propose to vote for at least six months immediately preceding the election. No literacy, property, or other substantive requirement shall be imposed on the exercise of suffrage."

In fact, Philippine laws allow for postal voting to accommodate absentee electors overseas. With health precautions to protect the senior citizen voters and legal precautions to protect the sanctity of the ballot, the success of future elections is ensured through this legislation.

In view of the foregoing, the swift passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
