EXPLANATION OF VOTES

On motion of Rep. Arthur R. Defensor Jr., the Chair recognized the following Members to explain their votes:

1. Representative Casilao said that Anakpawis Party-List objects to rice tariffication and importation because it would lead to the demise of the rice industry and further misery of the rice farmers, and would be advantageous only to rice traders, hoarders and importers. He cautioned that the measure is a blow not only to the rice industry but also to the consumers of rice, this as he noted that similar deregulation and tariffication acts did not result in lower price of basic commodities.
2. Speaking in Filipino, Representative Castro (F.L.) said that she is against the measure because it would not lower the price of rice. As she suggested the provision of full government subsidy to the farmers and the agricultural industry instead, she pointed to continuous rice importation, and the worsening state of smuggling and hoarding, and the proliferation of cartels.
3. Representative De Jesus emphasized in Filipino that the Rice Tariffication Bill would not benefit the women sector, especially the female peasants. She said that the measure would result in hunger because of higher price of rice, flooding of imported rice to the disadvantage of the local rice farmers but to the benefit of rice importers and rice cartels; and availability of loans for farmers but with interests through the Agricultural Competitiveness Enhancement Fund instead of being beneficiaries of a genuine land reform program.

4. Representative Villarin abstained from voting on the belief that tariffication alone would not solve the rice crisis. He noted government's contradicting economic policies, and suggested that the measure should be implemented together with the National Land Use Act, the ban on land use conversion of irrigated lands, and the provision of subsidies to farmers.
5. Representative Tinio said that his negative vote expresses his disappointment and condemnation of the Rice Tariffication Bill, which is against the benefit of millions of rice farmers and farmworkers and their families who have remained in debt and unable to compete with the price of imported rice because of lack of government support. He said that the measure would allow unlimited volume of rice importation that would lead to the death of the rice industry, like what happened to other basic industries because of government's liberal importation policies.

RESULT OF THE VOTING ON HOUSE BILL NO. 7735, AS CORRECTED

Upon being informed by the Secretariat as to the correct result of the voting on House Bill No. 7735, the Chair stated that the result should be 200 affirmative votes, seven negative votes, and two abstentions.

SUSPENSION OF CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2056

RECOGNITION OF NEW MEMBERS OF THE MINORITY

On motion of Representative Defensor, the Chair recognized Minority Leader Danilo E. Suarez who asked that the following be recognized as new members of the Minority bloc: Reps. Michelle M. Antonio, Francisco G. Datol Jr., Benhur B. Lopez Jr., Milagros Aquino-Magsaysay, Francisco Jose F. Matugas II, Teodoro "Ted" G. Montoro, Joseph Stephen S. Paduano, Frederick W. Siao, and Carlos Roman L. Uybarreta.

The Chair referred the matter to the Committee on Rules.

RESUMPTION OF CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2056 (Continuation)

On motion of Representative Defensor, there being no objection, the Body then resumed its consideration of House Resolution No. 2056, entitled:

“RESOLUTION EXPRESSING THE POSITION OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES THAT WHEN CONGRESS CONVENES AS A CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY TO PROPOSE AMENDMENTS TO, OR REVISION OF THE CONSTITUTION PURSUANT TO SECTION 1, PARAGRAPH 1 OF ARTICLE XVII OF THE 1987 CONSTITUTION, THE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES SHALL VOTE SEPARATELY.”

The Chair then recognized Rep. Vicente “Ching” S.E. Veloso, Chairperson of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, to sponsor House Resolution No. 2056 and Representative Fariñas to interpellate thereon.

INTERPELLATION OF REPRESENTATIVE FARIÑAS

Representative Fariñas first inquired whether the instant measure passed through the Committee on Constitutional Amendments. Representative Veloso replied that it did not pass said Committee and was filed directly with the Committee on Rules.

Recalling that he did not receive any notice of hearing on the matter, the former then asked whether the measure was a very important resolution because the House was interpreting a provision of the Constitution. The Sponsor replied that the House is not a judiciary when it comes to the interpretation of the Constitution.

Whereupon, Representative Fariñas observed that the House was expressing its position that when Congress convenes as a constituent assembly to propose amendments or revisions of the Constitution, the Senate and the House of Representatives shall vote separately. He stressed that the aforesaid Resolution was interpreting the Constitution because while what Article XVII states is that any amendment to or revision of said Constitution may be proposed by Congress upon a vote of three-fourths of all its Members, what it is saying is that the manner of voting thereon should be separate voting. He explained that it is a very basic rule of construction that when the law or a constitutional provision does not distinguish, one should not distinguish.

Representative Veloso recalled that when he was the senior Vice Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments and his colleague was the Majority Leader, he personally took the position that the aforesaid provision means a three-fourths joint voting and not separate voting; and that based on Section 1, Article VI of the Constitution, Congress was a bicameral body composed of the House of Representatives and the Senate. He added that during that time, he was also following the lead of Speaker Pantaleon Alvarez that the House could amend the Constitution alone.

He however pointed out that the leader of the House is now Speaker Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo who is taking the position and is appealing to the Majority of the House to take the same position, that the constituent assembly shall vote separately so that the revision of the Constitution will start moving. He also pointed out that the House is merely coming up with a resolution expressing its position; and that even if Representative Fariñas can bring the matter to the Supreme Court, the latter could not stop him from taking a personal position thereon which could become a collective position as well if other Members will follow suit.

Representative Fariñas clarified that he was not stopping the Sponsor from anything and was just asking questions to be enlightened because they were considering a very important constitutional provision which will guide the national posterity. He then said that the Constitution provides several instances of voting, as follows: 1) under Article VI, a vote of at least a majority of all its Members in regular or special session to revoke the proclamation of martial law or suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus; and by joint votation to extend the proclamation of martial law; 2) under Article VI, a vote of two-thirds of both Houses in joint session assembled, voting separately, to declare the existence of a state of war; and 3) under amendments to the Constitution, a vote of three-fourths of all the Members to propose amendments to or the revision of the Constitution, or to call a constitutional convention.

After recalling that the two Houses met in two instances in joint session and voted jointly when President Rodrigo Roa Duterte wished to extend the period of martial law, Representative Fariñas reiterated that as regards the issue at hand, Congress should not distinguish if the Constitution does not distinguish. He also asked whether the Sponsor could show any provision in the Constitution that talks of a constituent assembly.

Representative Veloso first adverted to Section 9, Article VII of the Constitution which states that in the case of a vacancy in the Office of the Vice President during the term for which he was elected, the President shall nominate a Vice President from among the Members of the Senate and the House of Representatives who shall assume office upon confirmation by a majority vote of all Members of both Houses of Congress voting separately.

The Sponsor then said that the Members were not jurists nor were members of the Supreme Court but were legislators free to adopt a position in a particular debatable issue which has not been settled yet. He said that he was sure that any vote in the Chamber will be elevated to the Supreme Court and he will wait for the same.

Subsequently, Representative Veloso opined that the statement regarding a vote of three-fourths “of all the Members of Congress” cannot just be taken to mean voting separately nor to mean as voting jointly; but a statement regarding such a vote “of all of its Members” refers to the two Houses of Congress which will therefore be constituted to revise or amend the Constitution. He added that if the Constitution does not so define the meaning of constituent assembly, then it is not for him (1) to begrudge the authors or (2) to be compelled to say that just because the Constitution does not define constituent assembly, then House Resolution No. 2056 is not well-grounded.

Representative Fariñas stressed his point, thus: the Constitution defines legislative power as that power vested in Congress which is constituted into two Houses; and thus the passage of a law involves its approval in both Houses of Congress, a bicameral conference committee if need be, and then the President’s approval. Constituent power, he however said, is granted to Congress by the sovereign Filipino people and it involves making proposals but not adopting or approving anything that will be of any effect. He disagreed with the Senate that because Congress is a bicameral body, the two Houses should work as a bicameral assembly in terms of proposing amendments to the Constitution. Such would be a wrong interpretation, he explained, because Congress will be held hostage by 24 Members as against people who represent every nook and cranny of the country.

He concluded that as long as a three-fourths vote of all the Members of Congress are obtained, one can come up with a proposal which will still be submitted anyway to the people for their approval; and that if the people approve the same, they would have acted through their Representatives. He added that Article VI of the Constitution states that legislative power shall be vested in Congress which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives, except to the extent reserved to the people by the provision on initiative and referendum.

Remarking that the interpretation of the Constitution was not limited to the Supreme Court, Representative Fariñas then held that the House was indeed interpreting the Constitution. He opined that it was wrong for the Senate, which already took a position that it will not join the constituent assembly, to consider the amendments to the Constitution as if it were passing a law because the legislative process involves several steps as what he had already mentioned.

He also stressed that constituent power is reserved to the people of the Philippines who delegated the same to Congress, upon three-fourths vote. He opined that any proposal to amend or revise the Constitution may be made as long as it is supported by three-fourths vote of all the Members of Congress and then submitted to the people for their approval or rejection.

As copies of the Bill had been distributed to the Members, on motion of Representative Defensor, there being no objection, the Body dispensed with the reading of the text thereof without prejudice to its insertion into the Record of the House.

On motion of Representative Defensor, the Chair recognized Rep. Dakila Carlo E. Cua, Chairperson of the Committee on Ways and Means, to deliver his sponsorship remarks.

OF REPRESENTATIVE CUA

Speaking in Filipino, Representative Cua said that House Bill No. 8083, also known as the Tax Reform for Attracting Better and High-Quality Opportunities (TRABAHO) Bill, was one of the priority bills of President Rodrigo Roa Duterte and a product of six Committee hearings, one technical working group, and countless meetings which included the private sector.

He clarified that it does not impose new taxes on goods but aims to generate more jobs and opportunities by encouraging the private-sector businesses to invest in the country.

Upon recognition by the Chair, Representative Emmi A. De Jesus said that the Body was discussing an important measure but there seemed to be no quorum.

The Chair motu proprio suspended the session at 4:53 p.m.

RESUMPTION OF SESSION

At 4:55 p.m., the session resumed and on motion of Representative Defensor, the Chair recognized Representative Cua to continue his sponsorship remarks.

(Continuation)

Representative Cua then explained that the instant Bill provides for a new incentives system that gives the government the power to review the performance of businesses that receive incentives and to grant a renewable period of incentives to those which create new jobs, add investments, and undertake research and development especially in non-urban areas and in the agricultural sector.

In conclusion, Representative Cua urged his colleagues to give all Filipinos the opportunity to improve their lives.

OF REPRESENTATIVE SUANSING (E.)

On motion of Representative Defensor, the Chair next recognized Rep. Estrellita B. Suansing who explained that the TRABAHO Bill is the second package of the comprehensive tax reform program and seeks to reform the corporate income tax system and broaden the tax base by modernizing investment tax incentives to enhance fairness, improve competitiveness, plug tax leakages, and achieve fiscal sustainability.

Considering that the government is currently not able to successfully translate its generous incentive scheme into investments and overseas business, she said that measures are needed to ensure that the economic benefits whipped from providing tax incentives are maximized and are greater than the significant costs associated with the foregoing tax revenues.

After citing several salient features of the Bill, the Sponsor underscored that the TRABAHO Bill is crucial and vital to the agenda of the Duterte Administration which includes infrastructure development, education for all, access to health care and social protection. She then thanked and appealed to her colleagues to support this noble endeavor.
