House Bill No. 793

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The fact that rice is the basic staple of Filipinos gives credence to the sensitivity of our people in cases of shortage or even a slight increase in the price of rice. This scenario, as our experience would show, has staggering economic and political ramifications. It no longer matters if the cause is due to: 1. the absence of a mechanism that requires the government to maintain a minimum buffer stock level; 2. the lack of foresight of government planners; and 3. hoarding or inefficient distribution.

To obviate future rice shortages and to ensure an adequate, stable, continuous and affordable rice supply for our people especially during times of emergencies and calamities, this bill seeks to establish a strategic food security and rice reserve. A minimum rice reserve equivalent to the 15-day national rice consumption is to be established, maintained, and controlled by the government through the National Food Authority (NFA), the agency mandated to assure the food security of the country especially during times of emergencies and calamities, and stabilizing the supply and price of grains. With a fifteen (15) day buffer stock, the government can unload or distribute anytime there is a noted gap in the supply of rice in the market in any part of the country to effectively stabilize the price of this staple.

In view of the foregoing and with the primordial objective of assuring a steady and ample supply of rice at affordable prices to our people, especially in times of disaster and calamities, the passage of this bill is strongly recommended.
