HOUSE BILL NO. 1889

INTRODUCED BY REPRESENTATIVE ALFRED VARGAS

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Public libraries play a vital role in the national and social development of our citizens. Libraries contribute to the improvement of literacy in the country, enable easy access to information and information technology, help deepen one's rootedness in the community, and facilitate the preservation and promotion of cultural heritage. If properly supported, public libraries provide the people with access to resources which can help improve their intellectual, economic, and social well-being.

As we are now in the modern era of information literacy, the State must recognize the immense potential of technology and public libraries as hand-in-hand partners in the development of a strong nation.

This bill seeks to equip our public libraries with the latest computer and electronic library technology. Through this, we are closing the gap between the citizens - the children, the youth, the vulnerable and marginalized, the entrepreneur, or the scientist - and their access to technology and information, thereby empowering people to unleash their potential and meet their information needs.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
