REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City

Eighteenth Congress
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 2057

Introduced by Rep. AURELIO "DONG" D. GONZALES, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to rename Clark International Airport located in Clark Freeport Zone, Angeles City, Pampanga as Diosdado Macapagal International Airport.

The Clark International Airport forms part of the former Clark Air Base operated by the United States Air Force until its closure in 1991. By virtue of Republic Act No. 7227, otherwise known as the "Bases Conversion and Development Act of 1992," President Fidel V. Ramos converted Clark Air Base into Clark Special Economic Zone and established the Clark International Airport Corporation to manage the airfield facilities. Clark Air Base was so named in honor of Major Harold M. Clark of the U.S. Army Signal Corps who died in a seaplane crash in the Panama Canal in 1919.

Resolution No. 07-08, S. 2001, which was issued in July 2001 by the Clark International Airport Corporation (CIAC) board, christened Clark International Airport as Diosdado Macapagal International Airport (DMIA) in commemoration of former President Diosdado Macapagal's 91st birthday. In 2003, President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo officially referred to DMIA as such through Executive Order No. 193, S. 2003.

President Diosdado Macapagal was the ninth President of the Republic of the Philippines, born in Lubao, Pampanga and the first Kapampangan president.

1He was revered as a statesman, champion of the poor, an intellectual, nationalist
2and dedicated public servant. His legacy includes land reform, free enterprise, 3social welfare programs, a moral regeneration program to eradicate graft and 4corruption and abolition of tenancy. He survived poverty, hunger and hardship
5and persevered to earn the degrees of Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Economics.
6He also topped the Bar Examinations in 1936.

7

8 In 2011, the CIAC Board during its 10th Special Board Meeting approved
9a resolution restoring DMIA's former name, Clark International Airport.
10Equipped with modern amenities, it now functions as one of the biggest aviation
11complexes in Asia. It caters to passengers from the provinces of Northern and 12Central Luzon.

14 Considering the vital role of this airport in aviation and in the 15international air transportation community, it is only fitting that it shall be 16named after a Filipino of unquestionable integrity with a sterling legacy and 17incomparable honesty. This bill proposes to rename Clark International Airport
18as Diosdado Macapagal International Airport in honor of former President
19Diosdado Macapagal, one of the most respected Filipino leaders.

20

21 Moreover, there is insistent public demand, particularly from the private 22and business sectors outside of Metro Manila, for the improvement and 23development of the Clark International Airport, which has CRK as its 24international code. Presently, CRK caters only to a handful of airlines such as 25Philippines Airlines, Cebu Pacific, Dragon Air, Emirates and Qatar Airways to 26name a few. Claims from these sectors would want CRK to be as functional as 27the Ninoy Aquino International Airport, catering to all commercial airlines.
28The ultimate goal is the decongestion of air and street traffic in Metro Manila.

29

30 In view of the foregoing, approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
