EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
Second Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 8031

Introduced by Representative Stella Luz A. Quimbo

AN ACT PROVIDING FOR ADDITIONAL MECHANISMS TO ACCELERATE THE RECOVERY AND BOLSTER THE RESILIENCY OF THE PHILIPPINE ECONOMY, PROVIDING FUNDS THEREFOR AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

On March 24, 2020, soon after the President declared a state of emergency due to COVID-19 and imposed the first community quarantine measures, the Bayanihan to Heal as One Act (Bayanihan I) was enacted. It granted the President emergency powers to better equip the government in addressing the pandemic and in providing aid to our countrymen. Bayanihan I helped build the capacity of the health care sector and provided immediate relief to those whose livelihoods had been disrupted by the lockdown, particularly through social amelioration and cash-for-work programs. This law expired in June with the adjournment of Congress’ first regular session.

As the COVID-19 pandemic continues and with no end in sight, we have seen its increasingly negative impact on our economy and on people’s livelihoods. In June, the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) reported a record-high in unemployment at 7.3 million Filipinos (17.7 percent) as of April 2020. With the need for government to turn its attention towards supporting businesses and restoring jobs, Congress enacted the Bayanihan to Recover as One Act (Bayanihan II), which allocates a total of 165 billion pesos towards the country’s COVID-19 health and economic response.

Similar to its predecessor, Bayanihan II grants emergency powers to the Executive to help combat the pandemic and includes measures for health care and social amelioration. Moreover, Bayanihan II places more emphasis on economic response and recovery. With businesses cash-strapped after months of hampered operations, Bayanihan II provides for capital infusion to government financial institutions to boost liquidity in the economy through low-interest loans and credit guarantees, as well as regulatory relief for loans, rent, and utilities. It targets assistance to key sectors such as transportation, tourism, education, and other small businesses that have been critically impacted by the pandemic. It also provides significant assistance to the agricultural sector to improve our food security, thereby boosting our long-term resilience to future shocks.

While these pieces of legislation have increased government’s capacity to respond to the demands of the ongoing crisis, they are not sufficient for the genuine economic recovery of the country. Government must also anticipate the need for additional response measures, given that Bayanihan II shall cease to be in force and effect by 19 December of the current year while the effects of the pandemic, and the virus itself, are expected to prevail well into 2021.

Forecasts for the overall growth rate of the Philippine economy in 2020 are unsurprisingly bleak. The DBCC, as basis for the 2021 national expenditure program, predicted a contraction of around 4.5 to 6.6 percent for 2020. Meanwhile, various credit rating agencies and international organizations, including the International Monetary Fund and the Asian Development Bank, predict even deeper contractions from around 7.3 to 9.5 percent. The latest data from the Philippine Statistics Authority show that the Philippine economy contracted by 16.5 percent and 11.5 percent in the second and third quarters of 2020, respectively - the worst quarterly contractions of our economy on record. Given the latest forecasts and an expected contraction for the year that is even deeper than what was assumed by the DBCC for budget purposes, an additional economic stimulus package is needed to ensure that recovery targets are met as planned.

Further, the current measures in place, particularly, Bayanihan II, will not completely addressed the economic damage brought about by the pandemic. Government needs to provide subsidies to workers for COVID-19 testing, paid sick leaves, and payment of wages such as overtime pay to encourage multiple shifts so worker deployment and re-employment can be maximized. Government must also provide capacity building for critically impacted sectors in order to support business innovation and facilitate access to new market opportunities. Meanwhile, in the education sector, there is a need to provide allowances to teachers and students who must now conduct their classes online. A Department of Education survey revealed that only 49 percent of the 687,911 public school teacher respondents had internet connections at home as of July 2020.\(^1\) Overall, only 17.7 percent of all households have their own internet access, according to a survey by the Department of Information and Communications Technology.\(^2\) Thus, the new mode of class instruction will create added monthly expenses on the part of teachers and students which may be difficult for many to accommodate.

The recent onslaught of natural disasters such as typhoons Quinta, Rolly, Siony, and Ulysses has brought further devastation to our people’s lives and livelihoods.

Government must also provide additional economic stimulus to rehabilitate typhoon-devastated areas and mitigate future risk from such disasters. Additional funding and support are an utmost need for the victims in these areas to rise up from the deluge of crises that have hit them, and to help recover from the economic losses sustained.

As part of our country’s response to the COVID-19 pandemic as well as the impact of recent typhoons, this bill proposes to allocate 100 billion pesos to subsidize business’ payments of wages or other worker-related expenses, 100 billion pesos for capacity building to impacted sectors, 90 billion pesos for additional social amelioration to impacted households (of which 20 billion pesos is targeted to households in typhoon-devastated areas), 30 billion pesos for assistance to displaced workers (including cash-for-clean up and cash-for-home building in typhoon-devastated areas), 50 billion pesos for the rehabilitation of typhoon-affected areas, 25 billion pesos for COVID-19 treatment and vaccines, and 5 billion pesos for the provision of internet allowances to teachers and students. The bill also proposes to extend Bayanihan II until June 4, 2021 to ensure its full implementation. Further, a joint executive and legislative council shall be formed to ensure effective implementation and monitoring of the country’s COVID-19 response. The bill also mandates NEDA to craft plans and reforms that will improve our country’s long-term economic and disaster resilience.

Uncertainty is the primary effect this pandemic has on every aspect of our lives. Government, therefore, must take charge and manage these uncertainties so as to promote and improve business and consumer confidence and social welfare. Increased spending is one vital approach to achieve these goals. These interventions shall stimulate the economy and subsequently, lead to full recovery.
